Rapport with students - YAJIE WANG (2 comments)

Q: Comments:

- 1 Approachable. Homework email explanations were extremely information and valuable. Acknowledged different merits of student answers in in-class discussions of economic policy or effects. This made the environment accepting and open to differing viewpoints because Yajie was able to give everyone equal platforms to speak and, even when wrong, not making us feel belittled.
- 2 She gives very specific and encouraging feedbacks for our class participation, assignments and tests.

- 2 She has organized class slides and lectures.

Comments on course (3 comments)

Q: What are the major strengths of this course?

- 1 Covered major areas of economics broadly and effectively (as an intro course should) but transitioned well into online format. Textbook was supplementary as lecture covered almost everything but sometimes useful on homeworks.

- 2 It gives a general and fundamental view of both Macro and Micro economics.

Q: Please share any suggestions for improvement

- 1 Maybe try to balance a little bit about the level of difficulty for the Micro and Macro, since the Macro part feels surely more difficult than the Micro part.

Comments on instructor - YAJIE WANG (5 comments)

Q: What are the major strengths of this instructor?

- 1 Was able to come up with strong economic arguments in response to student questions on the spot. Very detailed explanations of complicated graphs or concepts. In-class learning activities were engaging and very informative. Students liked Yajie so much that we all asked her if we could take whatever class she was TA-ing in the fall during midterm question time.
- 2 Very approachable and patient and try to help everyone of us in the class.

Q: Please share any suggestions for improvement

- 1 For some of the graphs, we can have a deeper analysis. If the chapter is short, for example, chapter 1,2, there is no need to discuss it but the content can be set as the preview of that day's class. If we can go beyond the powerpoint, the course can be more interesting and challenging.
- 2 More break-out room time would have been fun, but I understand it takes up a lot of time in the tight schedule.
- 3 I guess sometimes in Micro part of the course, we probably don't have to add extra examples to explain the basic terms.
